Dear Jessica,

The Trump administration wants to gut the auto fuel standards that will save consumers money AND dramatically reduce the amount of heat-trapping emissions cars release every year.¹

With your help and support, UCS fought hard to get these standards—the country's biggest commitment to reducing carbon emissions. We're rallying our activists to push back and preserve them, but we can't keep taking on attack after attack without the ongoing support of our members.

That's why our National Advisory Board has offered to DOUBLE gifts from our supporters, but that offer expires tomorrow. Join UCS in the fight for science with a matched gift.

Your support DOES make a difference. Recently UCS mobilized tens of thousands of supporters, who contacted EPA Acting Administrator Andrew Wheeler asking him to enforce a rule limiting production of super-polluting "glider trucks"—a rule that his predecessor Scott Pruitt had decided to ignore.

Just days ago Acting Administrator Wheeler reversed course and announced he isn't following through with the enforcement ban. This is a BIG win—and an indication that when UCS fights back we make a difference. But we need you to join that fight.

Join the 5,878 other UCS members who've already taken advantage of this rare opportunity to DOUBLE their impact in the fight for science.

UCS takes no funding from government or corporations, Jessica. That keeps us independent, but it also means our strength is based on the gifts we receive from our members.

Without you, we wouldn't have made so much progress on clean energy, environmental protections, transparency in government and its use of science, and so much more. And without you, we can't protect those wins that are now under daily threat by the Trump administration.

So, please, if you haven't already, take advantage of this special matching gift opportunity, and DOUBLE your impact today.

Sincerely,

John Mace
